Help for individual child care professionals

Caring for little kids is a big job, and Nebraska's child care providers work hard for the families who depend on them. Nebraska's School Readiness Tax Credit could help.

If you are a self-employed child care professional or a staff member in a child care program, you might be eligible for a refundable tax credit between $2,300 and $3,500 on your next state income tax return.
